Re-Opening of Schools early world wide has it's negative effects !

Denmark's coronavirus rate of infection has RISEN from 0.6 to 0.9 since schools re-opened

Analysis by Denmark's infectious diseases agency the State Serum Institute (SSI) found the reproduction rate, known as 'R', rose since schools opened on April 15 as the virus lockdown was eased.

According to the data, the 'R rate' increased from 0.6 in mid-April to 0.9 as of yesterday.

That is still below the crucial level of 1.0, which means each infected person passes the disease on to one other person. Health officials say when this point is reached the virus can spread exponentially and overwhelm the medical system.
